

The use of certification marks

The certification mark may only be used by clients with a valid certificate of the management system. The use of this mark shall be governed according to the requirements of ISO/IEC 17030: 2004-conformity assessment-General requirements for third-party marks of conformity.

The use of certification marks according to ISO/IEC 17030: 2004

The protected tag issued by the authority carrying out the assessment of conformity as a third party, which indicates that the subject of the assessment of conformity (product, process, system, person or body) is in compliance with the established requirements.

Example: Mark of conformity by third parties may be products, certification marks certification marks relating to the certification of quality management systems and environmental management systems, environmental conformity marks, etc.

According to Chapter 5.4 of ISO/IEC 17030: 2004 may be n and other products or on the packaging of the products displayed, only the marks of conformity by third parties, that are issued on the basis of the assessment of conformity of the product in accordance with the conformity assessment of the product. Any other marks of conformity by third parties, relating to the quality management systems or to environmental management systems and services, must not be on products and their packaging are displayed and may not be displayed or otherwise, which may be interpreted as an indication of conformity of the product. ISO certification body of the EU, s.r.o. Stars does not permit the use of their brands on the protocols, testing laboratories, calibration sheets/certificates or inspection reports. These logs, leaves and reports/certificates are in this context considered products.

According to Chapter 5.6 of ISO/IEC 17030: 2004 can be link to third-party conformity marks also used in documentation, advertising materials etc.

Using of certification marks

After the expiry of the certificate of the management system, the organisation shall discontinue the use of the certification document (certificate) and the certificate issued by the certification authority, ISO brand Stars of the EU, s.r.o. and must adjust their documentation, promotional documents and other materials so as to prevent the unauthorized use was clearly certification documents and signs.

Warning

Please note clients not to use the accreditation mark of the Czech Institute for accreditation. This tag can be used only by an accredited certification body as evidence that its activities are the subject of accreditation and inspection of the Czech Institute for accreditation, o.p.s. and, therefore, that these certificates have international validity.

A preview of the accreditation marks

The prohibition of the use of certification marks

Certification Authority prohibits the use of the certification marks on the protocols, testing laboratories, calibration sheets or certificates and inspection reports.

The specific use of the marks of itSMF (only for certification according to ISO/IEC 20000-1)

The certification mark itSMF is a registered brand name and its use is possible only after registration with the itSMF (Czech Republic or international).

The certification authority may use the tag on their certificates, itSMF or promotional materials describing the itSMF certification scheme.

Ing. Milan Bednařík, CSc.
Managing Director

The pattern of certification marks

